PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Or Else Revolution What Is Radio A Poem For

Come to me now singing
emergency! sirens
static
oh gentle night black
banners waving under your eyelids

Looking for you I come to me
find clocks under covers
defused or flaring
oh dynamic night

Crooning oh did you ever
touch
negative to positive
make the connection
to ground

Electric flowing transmission
amplitudes of consciousness
our modulations
come now singing now subliminal

Tuning-in did you hear poetry carrier currents
voices in ear like tongue
also shotguns
waves of blood

Did you turn off
or feel yourself pulsing
if ever close to feel in the air
how could I tell you in words

In the little black with wires
plug-in just to propagate dreams and
struggle with dying turn-off

STATION NOTES

Warren Van Orden
Interim Manager

By the time you read these notes, KPFA will presumably have a permanent manager, who will be introduced to you on the air, and in this space next month.

We also expect to have a Promotion Director by this time.

What this will mean is that there will be two new people at KPFA who will be able to devote most of their time to increasing the number of people who will listen to and subscribe to KPFA.

This lack of fund-raising and publicity energy has been the biggest problem of the past few months I have worked as Interim Manager and is the source of the most frustration.

In spite of our reducing pay to almost nothing until the first of this year and in spite of a very successful Christmas Crafts Fair, we have only reduced our debt to about $40,000. Although this is a significant reduction from the $65,000 debt of last August, it will be a few months before we can reduce it further. To operate responsibly we must reduce it to $25,000.

Next month, we will be undertaking some kind of a major fund-raising drive. Whether it will be a marathon, or a series of other kinds of benefits, will be decided at the time our new manager is selected. Until then, our financial situation will be very tight.

For this reason, I would like to encourage any of you who owe KPFA any bills, or are nearing renewal, to pay your pledges as soon as you possibly can, since we need money right now.

Another unfortunate result of our poverty is the necessity to print the Folio on less expensive news print and to cut back the number of page. We hope this won't be a permanent change, but the cost of paper has increased so much recently that the cut was necessary.

Aside from our monetary difficulties, with which I've been rather occupied, I am very optimistic about the direction of KPFA. I believe we at KPFA have proved that a long time desire for the involvement of the full staff in the procedures of the station has finally successfully begun. It is clear from the mood of the staff, as well as from letters and calls we are receiving from you the listeners, that there is more interest and energy inside KPFA, and it shows on the radio. Now that the structure of the station is working out well, we can put more of our energy into producing better radio programs and letting all of Northern California know about KPFA.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Kathy McAnally
Public Affairs Co-Director

When I decided to write this article for the Folio, my original plan was to peck out a detailed description of the various programs that the Public Affairs department is producing for the month of February.

Now, as I sit here on my hill in Lafayette, listening to the rain and the harried clatter of behind schedule B.A.R.T. trains, I find myself feeling, well, non-specific. During the past three months since Anita Frankel and I first began the often overwhelming job of keeping the Public Affairs department going, it has sometimes seemed as though all our energy has gone into keeping one step ahead of the impending disaster of the day. As soon as one problem gets dealt with, another monster appears. But things are slowly settling down to a pace that allows for some generalized thinking about what the Public Affairs department at KPFA should be doing in order to best inform, enlighten, and hopefully, entertain its listening audience.

Public Affairs is something of a euphemism for Political Affairs. Although one usually thinks of Public Affairs programming as something in the vein of documentaries about a specific subject, it doesn't end there. One cannot take the music of Bob Dylan or Sun Ra out of its political and social context, just as one cannot disregard the theatrical aspects of a political convention or a confirmation process. Politics and art are very much intertwined, and that connection cannot be overlooked in presenting Public Affairs radio programs. So, one often hears music and poetry mixed into interviews in documentaries.

But there is another way to go too. Here at KPFA, we have five programming departments, and we are getting into something that hasn't been done much in the past. Several departments are working together on a specific project, thus bringing in the specialized skills of several areas in the station. Example: On Saturday, the 22nd, a program on George Washington will be "produced" by two members of the Public Affairs department, yet the music will be provided by Charles Amirkhanian, and the special effects and some of the voices will be done by people who work in the Drama and Literature department.

This is a small example of the kinds of things that we hope to do in future months. But we feel that such projects will result in better, more informative programs. And once in a while, we hope that it will make you smile.

COCONUT

Will you make me suffer
the way I suffer
When I suffer
The way I look
and scream for you
For you inside
The miles of walls
to be separated
Can we stand at the edge and make decisions
of combat together
Climb towards My fingers where they wait to touch
The total landscape
of our positions
In the wind with Sorrow Open mine
eyes Is there a Carnival there
Do not be surprised
if what can never
happen will happen
And the flowers
Might jump into our ears
as music
Go get em into a dance
We sing through the
layers of ignorance
In front of us
will you make me suffer
Eternity.

2

Que, si
All over a sun rise
The morning whispers
Back to me
As I am in motion
trying to find the key To the door in your spirit
Let me all over you Like water which finds
a secret cave
At the bottom of the ocean.

"CERAMIC TILE FOR YOUR EVERY NEED"

Ceramic tile has undergone great changes in the last five years. Many new shapes, colors, and textures have appeared on the scene. Imports from such places as Japan, Italy, Mexico, Spain, etc., have both opened up new possibilities and revived traditional patterns. Tile which was once only available to architects and commercial customers is now becoming available at the retail level.

We, at The Tile Shop, are trying to further these developments both by providing the widest selection possible and constantly seeking new and unusual tile. If you haven't looked at ceramic tile for a while, come by and browse. . . .

to the listener or something totally different.
